

There was a huge shimmer of light in the enchanted forest. Maisi, who was young, had bought a minute, glistening bracelet. Emilie was so jealous; she decided to make a plan. She would steal Maisi's most precious things.

The next day, Maisi found out, therefore she cried and then at the town hall she challenged whoever stole them to a fight. Emile thought she should give up, but instead she stole some more!

Later that day, Maisi told Emilie "whoever stole my things is going to regret it" Emilie said "I happen to know who took them" she said gloomily. So Maisi asked who; she was going to confess but instead she blamed it on someone called Abbi. So Maisi went over and demanded a fight (which was to be a short one). Emilie felt sorry for Abbi so she confessed, apologised to Maisi and Abbi then Emilie said it was out of jealousy. The moral of this story is do not steal.
