

Walliams home survival weekly plans

Hi Walliams,

I hope you all had a lovely half term and have been able to get out and enjoy some of the sunshine and have a good rest from all the work I keep sending you. I hope you are all focussed and ready to do some more fantastic work for me, to make sure you keep those clever brains of yours working. This term for maths, as a lot of you will have completed the work set from text book 3, I am going to suggest that you use either the BBC bitesize or National Oak Academy online Maths lessons each day, or there is also the @Whiterose homelearning online lessons and activities (these would be good to use as it is the scheme we use at school. I am going to add another two sections, one for a literacy task for the week and the second some P.S.H.E. – I hope you all continue to work hard and I look forward to seeing what you have done at the end of each day.

Love Mrs Meggs x

Here are some ideas for activities at home week commencing Monday 1st June 2020. . Remember these are only ideas and if you prefer to do the BBC Bitesize or National Oak Academy on line lessons or any other paper or on line work that you enjoy doing. Just remember to send me a list or photo of what you have done so that I can update your Class Dojo points.
